Little Eagles ... Little Feet

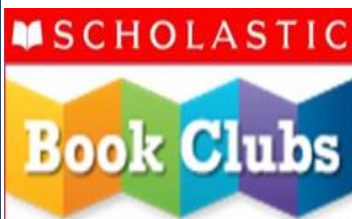

What a whiff! No, not really 😊 This week I have watched while the children have been getting messy and feeling that squishy feeling between their toes when printing their feet. What a delight it is to hear the children filled with excitement for their turn, giggling when the paint tickles their toes and chuffed to see their foot on the page in front of them. So much to learn, explore and enjoy and such a pleasure to see happening in front of our eyes.

Tapestry

Hopefully your Tapestry account and log on will be working and you are seeing an observation or picture being added here and there.

It is possible for you to add things that happen at home. Perhaps, joining in with baking, exploring in the woods and talking about the seasons. Lots of interesting observations of your child learning about something.

If you have any difficulty logging on, please just ask a member of staff.
